Prestige Technology Solutions

Prestige Technology Solutions is a comprehensive provider of information technology solutions and the many elements of management and support of its encompassing environment – The IT infrastructure.

The company was formed in November 1988, commenced trading in February 1989 and is now in its fifteenth year. The principle trading activity of the company is the supply of IT infrastructure products, services and solutions. The IT infrastructure solutions provided by Prestige will normally encapsulate a varying range of technical skills along with various hardware elements. We then seek to provide the customer with an on-going range of support options which can include hosting and systems management, IT service management, first-line response and training.

We have significant authorised vendor relationships with all major leading manufacturers but have been a leading HP partner for over 12 years.

Sharing strategic business partnerships with many industry leading vendors, together with a wealth of internal experience enables us to provide our customers with services highly relevant to organisations whose business efficiency depends upon a robust and secure IT infrastructure.

Another principle activity of the company is that of IT infrastructure technology integrator. We work between software and hardware vendors addressing such issues as hardware sizing and supply, software and database configuration and installation, networking, storage and disaster planning, design and configuration. We have vast experience in this field and have built and developed IT infrastructure solutions in conjunction with such software vendors as J.D. Edwards (authorised channel partner) and SAP. Other relevant ‘extensions’ to this integration service can and often does include system management, hosting and first-line support.

Prestige’s portfolio of deliverable IT services and solutions encapsulates a broad range of technological IT issues facing many IT directors and managers regardless of hardware platform or industrial vertical. We deliver these ‘solutions’ through a technical consulting team of over 60 experienced IT professionals based throughout the UK.
